Geopolitics of the Energy Transformation

Project

Duration

Dec 2014 - Apr 2015

The American Institute for Contemporary German Studies (AICGS) at Johns Hopkins University initiated a project in collaboration with the Ecologic Institute discussing the geopolitics of the Energy Transformation.

The project included

- a conference with Camilla Bausch and Max Gruenig in Washington, DC, on 27 February 2015: The Geopolitics of Energy - A German and American Perspective;
- two publications, including: The Future of Power in a Post-Carbon Society by Max Gruenig; and
- a Dinner Dialogue with Ecologic Institute in Berlin.

Funding

American Institute for Contemporary German Studies (AICGS), United States Daimler-Fonds im Stifterverband für die Deutsche Wissenschaft (Daimler-Fonds), Germany

Partner

Ecologic Institute US (EIUS), United States

Team

Max Gruenig

Duration

Dec 2014 - Apr 2015

Project ID

238

Keywords

Climate Energy Foreign Policy energy, security, post-carbon Europe, USA publications, conference, Dinner Dialogue Source URL: https://www.ecologic.eu/12700