

Ecologic Institute launches Washington DC office

News

On 20-27 April 2009, the Ecologic Institute launches its newly established Washington DC office with a series of events focused on transatlantic environmental policies. Over the course of this week, Ecologic will partner with established civil society and educational institutions to address a range of timely issues, from new challenges for Arctic governance over comparative approaches to green recovery to transatlantic experiences with the promotion of renewable energy sources.

20 April 2009 â The Changing Climate in U.S. Renewable Energy Markets and Policy

Transatlantic Breakfast with Matt Clouse co-hosted by the American Embassy in Berlin and the Ecologic Institute

20 April 2009 â The Role of Think Tanks in International Environmental Governance

Ecologic Dinner Dialogue, part of the Ecologic Institute's Social-ecological research (SÄF projects)

21 April 2009 â Transatlantic Recovery: Green Jobs for a Cool Planet?Ä

Lunch Dialogue co-hosted by the Friedrich Ebert Foundation and the Ecologic Institute

21 April 2009 â Policy Pathways Toward Improved Governance of a Warming Arctic

Roundtable Seminar convened by Ecologic and the German Marshall Fund of the United States

21 April 2009 â Ecologic Institute Washington DC Launch Celebration

Grand Reception, co-hosted by the German Marshall Fund of the United States

22 April 2009 â Geoengineering and the Governance of International Spaces

Luncheon hosted with the Foundation for the Good Governance of International Spaces

22 April 2009 â Konrad von Moltke Fund

The memory of Konrad von Moltke is being honored on Earth Day with a reception marking the start of the Konrad von Moltke Fund in the U.S.

22 April 2009 â The Evolution of EU Environmental Governance

Joint Symposium at Johns Hopkins University with Dr. Ingmar von Homeyer, Senior Fellow at the Ecologic Institute

23 April 2009 â The Role of Think Tanks in International Environmental Governance

Second InEG Network Meeting, part of the Ecologic Institute's Social-ecological research (SÄF projects)

23 April 2009 â Overcoming the Economic Crisis with Renewable Energies

Noon Briefing on Capitol Hill jointly organized with the Heinrich BÄll Foundation

27 April 2009 â Transatlantic Transition towards a Low Carbon Economy

Ecologic Dinner Dialogue with Christopher Flavin, Worldwatch Institute

Ä

The Ecologic Institute is a leading European not-for-profit environmental policy think tank. Founded in Berlin in 1995, with additional offices in Brussels and Vienna, it is a member of the network of Institutes of European Environmental Policy (IEEP), and provides information to the public as well as research and advice to government agencies, international organizations, as well as educational and civil society institutions on both sides of the Atlantic. Its Washington DC office will help inform the public and promote transatlantic cooperation on climate and energy, European integration and the environment, and infrastructures and transformation.Ä

Ä

Further Links:

Ecologic Press Release: Leading European Environmental Think Tank Launches Washington DC Institute

Keywords

Climate
Education
Energy
EU
Foreign Policy

Source URL: <https://www.ecologic.eu/2780>