Karl Lehmann works as Senior Events & Communications Manager at Ecologic Institute. He focuses on the conceptual design and implementation of event and communication formats. He is a native German speaker, but he is also fluent in English.

As part of his work in the Events Team, Karl Lehmann is responsible for the preparation, implementation, and follow-up of national, European, and international digital and on-site events that address current environmental policy issues, such as conferences, workshops, study tours and webinars. He is particularly interested in designing tailor-made event formats to ensure the effective involvement of participants.

In addition to that, Karl Lehmann develops communication and dissemination strategies for research projects at Ecologic Institute. He is responsible for the coordination of communication activities as well as their efficient, strategic and technical implementation. Karl Lehmann has co-produced Ecologic Institute's podcasts Knowledge for Future and Creating Green Cities.

□

In 2023, Karl Lehmann completed a Master's degree in Communications Management at the IST University of Applied Sciences. In his master's thesis, he analysed the potential use of podcasts in environmental science communication. He completed a dual-study BA program in Business Administration with a focus on Event, Exhibition, and Conference Management at the University of Cooperative Education in Berlin in October 2014.
