Procedural Aspects in the Context of the Adoption of a New Climate Agreement - International Analysis of a Pioneering Strategy

[1]

Does international law allow implementing climate policies of different speeds? Can countries form pioneer alliances for ambitious climate protection or are the UN Framework Convention and the Kyoto Protocol a straight jacket?

A new Ecologic paper answers these questions. It discusses whether and in what form legally binding measures outside the Convention are lawful and meaningful.

This project and a new paper answers these questions.
