TEC, Article 176 on Savings Provision

In this chapter of "Smit & Herzog on The Law of the European Union", founded by Hans Smit and Peter Herzog, Michael Mehling and Gitte Warnick of Ecologic Institute describe and analyze Article 176 of the Treaty establishing the European Community. First, the authors provide a review of the evolution of the article. The second part is an exhaustive analysis of significant judgments and decisions.

This chapter is part of the book Smit & Herzog on The Law of the European Union [1], which can be purchased for $1393.00 from the LexisNexis Bookstore [2].

Additional contributions by Ecologic Institute:
- Chapter 268: Introduction to Title XIX – Environment [3]
- Chapter 269: TEC, Article 174 on Environment Policy
- Chapter 270: TEC, Article 175 on Actions to Achieve Environmental Objectives

Citation

Language
English

Author(s)
Michael Mehling, LLM
Gitte Warnick

Publisher
• LexisNexis, United States

Year

2005

Published In

Book: Smit and Herzog on The Law of the European Union, 271/271-274

ISBN

9780820569710

Table of Contents

§271.01 Text TEC, Article 176
§271.02 General Background
§271.03 Material Breakdown and Analysis
§271.04 Significant Judgments and Decisions

Keywords

European Union, European Community, European law, domestic law, treaty, legislation, regulation, member states, Environmental Law, Environmental Policy,

Source URL (modified on 08/23/2018 - 02:00): https://www.ecologic.eu/2426

Links

[1] https://www.ecologic.eu/2422