2014 Global Go To Think Tank Index Released Simultaneously Around the World

Brookings Remains Top Global Think Tank

(January 22, 2015) PHILADELPHIA, PA – The Think Tanks and Civil Societies Program (TTCSP) at the University of Pennsylvania today released its 2014 Global Go To Think Tank Index Report, the most comprehensive ranking of the world’s top think tanks. Simultaneous launch events were held by 81 organizations in 62 cities in 51 countries worldwide, and will be translated into over 20 languages.

As the premier database and measure of world think tanks, the Go To Index aims to increase the profile, performance and impact of think tanks, and to create a transnational and interdisciplinary network of centers of public policy excellence.

“In a world filled with tweets and sound bites that are often superficial and politically charged, it is critical to know where to turn for sound policy proposals that address the our complex policy issues,” says James McGann, PhD, Director of the University of Pennsylvania’s Think Tanks and Civil Societies Program. “This independent Index is designed to help identify and recognize the leading centers of excellence in public policy research around the world.”

The global launch of the 2014 Go To Index was hosted Washington D.C. at the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS) with a discussion of the challenges and opportunities for defense policy think tanks in the coming year. An afternoon session in New York City at the United Nations Headquarters focused on the connections between inter-governmental organizations and think tanks. The Index was also distributed through a network of global partners, giving institutions a chance to highlight the crucial role they play in building and maintaining civil society in their countries and regions. While the Go To Index will help to foster these discussions, the focus will be on the importance of think tanks’ policy research programs.

The annual report is compiled with assistance from over 3000 peer institutions and experts from the print and electronic media, academia, public and private donor institutions, and governments around the world and ranks the top 150 global think tanks across four general categories:

- Top Think Tanks in the World
- Top Think Tanks by Region
- Top Think Tanks by Area of Research
- Top Think Tanks by Special Achievement

This year's report also includes new Global Health and Domestic Health categories as well as a Global Trends feature; a detailed analysis of the biggest developments and challenges that think tanks have faced and will continue to face in the near future.

The Brookings Institution ranked top of the Global Think Tank list for the seventh consecutive year. Following is a selection of rankings, but the full reports since 2008 can be found online at <http://gotothinktank.com/rankings>.
